

Nonissue

Even if we found out that Distill's primary place of business is in CA, the defendant Van is domiciled in AZ. The venue is not proper, and so the case should be dismissed for lack of proper venue. However, defendants in their reply have not filed a motion to dismiss based on venue, and so venue has been "waived": they have lost the opportunity to challenge venue.

Not asked. So why raise?